LETTER FROM FRANKFORT.

LOUISVILLE DAILY COURIER.

"Perjury Made Easy." Mr. Prentice, in yesterdays's Journal, thus characterises my communication in Wednesday's Courier. It is easy to call: of noble sires, swell its ranks, handle its plain argument "very awkward as well as benighted casuistry." But it is singular Colonel Roger W. Hanson is a Union rial remark, even Mr. Prentice has failed man; Colonel CRITTENDEN, a Union to point out either its awkwardness of

It is true that the third section of the Constitution prescribes that State legis lators, &c., shall be bound by oath to sustain their Constitution. Why? Evidently because it was the expressed will of each separate State or Republic, and was thus the law which united each State with every other State which adopted it. The Const tution was the law adopted by an independ ent Republic which united it to the other separate Republics. I, therefore, swore to sustain it as the expressed will, or law, of twenty eight States. But it is no longer the expressed will or law of these States and hence the basis of the oath is dis-

Had every State in the Union rescinded the act which united each with the others, would my oath to sustain the former States still be binding? If thirty out of the thir ty-four republics of the North American Union had severed the original bond, and escinded the constitutional law, would my conscience bind me to the remainin four? The stern fact is, the twenty-eight States whose expressed universal will l swore to sustain are no longer in Union The cord is severed, and I am not bound to attach myself to either fragment. I stand absolved in calm non-committed "ARMEL NEUTRALITY," consistant and consciencious in my position. My oath does not bine me to sustain the Constitution, and hence while the two portions whose will or Con stitution, when in union I was bound to obey, are moved in deadly conflict, I am under no obligation to take part with either. Were my oath still binding it would be otherwise, but it is not, hence my neutrality. But, Mr. Prentice says, I swore to sustain he Union itself. I deny it, and defy him to prove it. I swore to obey the Constitu tion of the United States, the suprem law of each one of them voiced forth in that instrument. It is no longer the voice of the United States of Georgia, Virginia and eight other States. It is the law of a faction, not of the whole. My oath was imposed by the united Republics; it is not now imposed by the united Republics; in therefore "falls by the extinction of the

But Mr. Prentice denies that the sece sion of ten or eleven States is a revolution or at least, the fact that the "revolution is not consummated and never may be, makes my oath still binding. It is, then in his estimation, a mere riot and insurrection. And he seems to rejoice to know that "the Government is making a determine effort to assert by force the authority of the Northern nation"-that is, the other parts BILL-THE SKELETON WITNESS-THE MAG- of the united Republics. Hence, as the ten Confederated States may be subjugated by the other Confederated States, my oath still binds me to aid the one government ill is rich and rare. The tragic drama of or party against the other. But if it were the Skeleton Witness will be performed a revolution, anythinglike a consummated a song by Mr. Hamilton, Happy Moments the grand tableaux vivant of Washington would, according to the concessions of Mr. Prentice, be most correct and enlightened. Now what were his estimate of this resolution three months ago. He wrote Jan-

> "We are free to confess that this disur ion movement, in its present consolidated strength, and colossal propositions [proportions] impresses us very differently from its earlier condition, when it existed only as a vague and passionate impulse, a conspiracy, or a revival of the restless spirit of nullification. It is now a great rit of nullification. It is now a great storic fact, a movement in which the henistoric fact, a movement in which the heroic population of six or perhaps seven anarchy to consolidated Government and martial vigor—from provincial revolt to probable national independence. In its rapid growth and transformations, the people of the adjacent States have scarcely known from day to day how to regard its portentious aspect. Hundreds of rumors and "sensation dispatches," circulated through the country and firmly believed, have proved almost groundless, but have served to alienate the people of other States and furnish materials for strengthening Republican prejudices and sectional hostility."

Three months have passed. Three other Three months have passed. Three other powerful republics have joined that Con ederacy, adding grandeur to its collossal roportions; and yet Mr. Prentice quotes

Wheaton to prove that it is not a Govern ment de facto, because Wheaton truly says ment de facto, because Wheaton truly says:

"The habitual obedience of the nembers of any political society to a superior authority must have once existed in order to constitute a sovereign State. But the temporary suspension of that obedience and of that authority, in consequence of a civil war, does not necessarily extinguish the being of the State, although it may affect for a time its ordinary relations with other States."

Does not Mr. Prentice's own description of the Confederacy fill up Wheaton's pic-ture of a sovereign State. If so, my argunent is neither awkward or benighted, but mmutably true.

But suppose the revolution is not cosummated? Was the American Revolution onsummated when the Declaration of In dependence was adopted and signed by the Continental Congress? Was the Revolu tion consummated when Washington, a worn officer of the English crown, tool up arms against the Government? Wash ington, and Lee, and Jefferson and Henry perjured rebels? And was the sublime an ouncement that "Governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed," and that "whenever any form of Government becomes destructive of these ends it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it"—was "this awkward as well as benighted casuistry?" Is this a pattern for perjury made easy? or is it the eternal principal on which freedom rests? And now, passing by Mr. Prentice's assertions and aspersions, I can assure him that if I am a representative man I represent that numerous class of Old Line Whigs who sustained Bell and Everett, who helped to swell the majority of the Crittenden and Guthrie ticket in the late election for the Border State Convention, who are against the present secession of Kentucky. governed," and that "whenever any form against the present secession of Kentucky who cling to the Union while the last hope of its peaceful reconstruction remains un quenched, but who despise the villianous and bloody despotism of Lincoln, and will defend this soil from the tread of his minons to the death. Such is the class of alm, unobtrusive citizens to which I beong, and be assured it is numerous as a umn leaves.

HARDIN COUNTY, May 16, 1861 Editors Louisville Courier: The attention of the people in this quarter has been tion of the people in this quarter has been called to a few remarks made by the honorable James Guthrie, at a meeting of laborers thrown out of service in Louisville, in which he advises them to seek employment by the farmers in the country. The farmers in this quarter, I think it may be safely assumed, are supplied with laborers equal to the means they have for payment, and if the blockade of the Railroad shall be made effectual, and the hopes payment, and if the blockade of the Rail-road shall be made effectual, and the hopes of relief from a rich harvest in expect-ancy blasted, they will themselves be driven to desperation. The farmers here deeply sympathize with the laboring men in Louisville, and would fain hope they would, in some legitimate form, show their unwillingness to submit to the usur-pations of a reckless and blood-thirsty Ad-ministration. The farmers in this quarministration. The farmers in this quar-ter would look with much suspicion on a rush of laborers from the city into the country.

A HARDIN FARMER,

[Correspondence of the Louisville Courier.] FRANKFORT, KY., May 17, 1861.

Editors Louisville Conrier: It is amusing to witness the large exhibitions of vanity which small men sometimes make. For instance, some smooth-coated, slick-batted member, who during the entire morning session has been in a state of "non rompos mentis," so far as any connection or interest of his pertained te surrounding circumstances, on the appearance of bright ricumstances, on the appearance of bright eyes, ruby lips, and rosy cheeks in the obby, instantly becomes infected with eyes, ruby lips, and rosy cheeks in the lobby, instantly becomes infected with a nervous twitching, which prompts him to the floor, and in exhibiting himself to the admiring gaze of beauty, he losses sight of the entire subject under consideration. There are many theaters of worldly action—many strange actors thereon, and many strange farces enacted. Garrick in the glory of his prime never played a more successful part than some men daily play upon the stage of egotism and vanity. Many of such doubtless are good souls, who lack the power of "seeing themselves as others see them." There are other scenes in the semi-farce worthy of passing note. Some people have a great ambition to (miss) represent the people, and meeting with success, they spend the whole time of their term pretty much in devising some humbug or deception by which they are to dupe and demagogue their people into their return to the Legislature. For this purpose they rape the lock of invention, and search the entire archieves of legislation in hope thereby to concoct the biggest imposition yet extant. Some are ambitious of consistent records, even in ases where "consistency" has ceased to be "jewel." Others, again, chameleon-like, resolve themselves into all sorts of attitudes, resolve themselves into all sorts of attitudes, fantastic shapes and forms, playing "head and tail," whide and seek," until confiding constituency are as much puzzled to find their actual whereabouts, as though they were inhabitants of the moon. Others have a great penchant for appearing "in public on the stage." No measure, however simple and plain its provisions may be, but needs the solution of their lucid views. The dross must be sifted from the pure metal by the refinement of their logic, before it is ready for the action of duller minds. If that wise maxim, "a man is not to be heard for his much speaking," was better observed, fools would continue to be their own private property, and the better observed, fools would continue to be their own private property, and the action of "public justice," as well as the business of the public, be greatly expedited. But "poppin juys" must chirp occasionally, though their chirpings be as meaningless and as tuncless to the cultivated car as the bleating of a sheep on the frozen plains of winter.

Should these criticisms of mine fall under the grace of some of the members and should these criticisms of mine tail an der the gaze of some of the members, and especially of some of the Senators, the will readily appreciate the justice as well as the force of my remarks.

At this point Col. Machen, the Chairman, made an able and eloquent defense of his own substitute and in opposition to the "striking out" policy of the Unionists. He said that the neutrality policy adopted by the House yesterday, would require a strong and efficient military force to sustain it. The Northern States—where we supposed we had triends, were marshaling their embattled hosts by the hundreds of thousands, eager for an inroad upon the South. Mr. Pierce had deserted us; Buchanan had deserted; Cushing and Butler had deserted, and Fillmore had gone, and we had to fight our battles alone. Lincoln, a tyrant and an usurper, had arrogated to himself powers not authorized by the Conms elf powers not authorized by the Co stitution or the Laws. The issuing of his Proclamation calling for armed troops, and the taking postussion of Southern Territory, was unauthorized by that Constitution he had sworn to support. He said that now there was no Union in existence, except an Union of Northern States against the South. He could not speak for the people up here, but that he had a right to speak for his own people, who he knew would resist the usurpations of Lincoln's dovernment to the last extremety. If we do not intend to defend our liberties and rights, let us ground our arms and yield in bject submission to the Lincoln dynasty. In a strain of gloquence, he exclaimed: "Can a Roman Scnate long debate stitution or the Laws. The issuing of h

The fact that the Major halls from the county of Madison may have controlled the tenor of of his remarks, though I do not believe that he is a Republican in sentiment. Without coming to a vote, the House, at half-past one, adjourned to meet at 3½ P. M., at which time we shall have a further discussion.

In the Senate, this morning, only business of a local nature was attended to.

Mr. Whitaker, of Shelby, introduced a batch of coercion Resolutions, to which various amendments were offered. Without any disposition of them, the Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

I do not yet despair of this Legislature, though the prospect before us is gloomy though the prospect before us is gloomy enough. I hope to report more encouragingly to-morrow. MARSHALL.

John E. Love and Alex. Chumly had a difficulty, and on Saturday they met at the ball alley and renewed it. Chumly fired at Love, and they then called their friends; Love received three shots, Chumly several, and both were killed.

Diek Aullech, Hort, Woods, and Sandy Horton were all badly wounded on Love's side, and Dod Chumly on the other side.—Jim Waterman received a mortal wound accidentally. He was not dead yesterday, but it was supposed he would die. A man who was trying to stop the fight got a bullet in his leg.

There were thirty shots fired, and a majority, I understand took effect. Love and Chumly both fought as long as they could stand, and both expired very soon. They all used their pistols and knives, I understand.

The letter does not state the nature of the quarrel which ended in this bloody tragedy.

SATURDAY MORNING ...... MAY 18.

The Reward - The Administration and its Soldiers. The Administration at Washington having usurped the power and declared war against the States of the Southern Confederacy, proceeded to the exercise of other powers confided by the Constitution solely to the Congress, and raised armies to prosecute the unholy conflict it had entered upon. One hundred and fifty thousand men from the Northern States have responded to the call for volunteers to overrun and subjugate the South.

They have been mustered into the service of the Government, made to take oaths and assume obligations unknown to the Constitution or the laws, and put under the command of the favorites of the unprincipled and reckless and desperate politicians who have the control of such

Half uniformed, less than half equipped, indifferently armed, they have been put into camps in their respective States or marched to distant localities.

An extract published by us a few days ago from high Black Republican authority in Philadelphia, showed the material of which this army is composed, the utter unfitness of its commanders, the wretched condition of the Commissary's department, and foreshadowed the privations and sufferings to which these martyrs to Northern fanaticism would be subjected. There is a camp of these Northern sol-

And for what are these men fighting !-What prompts them to submit to exposure, privation, sickness, suffering, and barbarous treatment from those in whose service they are? Nobody has sought to deprive them of their rights, to interfere with them in any manner, or menaced their peace, safety, or their homes. hospital at Camp Dennison and give it a human appearance. And to this end, we want the car of every citizen who has a heart beating in his bosom.

To of the world. There is as much devotion of the world. There is as much devotion to Tennessee on her Eastern border tas in any other section; and devotion to to farnish the hospital the shameless, heartless reply was—
"STRAW IS THE ONLY BED GOVERNMENT FURNISHES ITS SOLBIERS!"

WE ARE SATISFIED THAT APPEALS TO THE GOVERNMENT, OR THE OFFICERS IN COMMAND, WILL BE IN VAIN. The people must take hold of the hospital at Camp Dennison and give it a hospital story of the contemptible or to excite any feeling here. They are nessee going out of the Union and joining the Confederacy.

Potosi at three o'clock in the morning, and surrounded the town with chain sentinels. Shortly after daylight about 150 were taken prisoners, formed in line, the Union men recognized and released, about 50 Secessionists liberated on parole, and nine of the leaders brought to the city as prisoners of war.

A lead manufactory belonging to John Dean, was taken possession of, and some four hundred pigs of lead seized. On the return trip, the troops dispersed a company of cavalry at Desoto, captured thirty horses which were left behind in their flight, and hoisted the stars and stripes on the pole just raised to receive a secession flag.

A prominent Secessionist has been arrested here, and still another at Victoria, making twelve in all who are now in the Arsenal.

Thirteen American families arrived here last n ght, having been driven from different towas on the Pacific Railroad for supporting the Union.
